What can an actor give? in ev'ry age Cafh hath been rudely banifh'd from the fage; Monarchs themfelves, to grief of ev'ry play'r, Appear as often as their image there: They can't, like candidate for other feat, Pour feas of wine, and mountains raife of meat. Wine! they could bribe you with the world as foon; And of roaft beef, they only know the tune: But what they have they give; could Clive do more, Though for each million he had brought home four?

Shuter keeps open houfe at Southwark fair, And hopes the friends of humour will be there.

In Smithfield, Yates prepares the rival treat
For thofe who laughter love, inftead of meat;
Foote, at Old Houfe, for even Foote will be,
In felf-conceit, an actor, bribes with tea;
Which Wilkinson at fecond-hand receives, And at the New, pours waters on the leaves.

The town divided, each runs fev'ral ways, As paffion, humour, int'reft, party, fways. Things of no moment, colour of the hair, Shape of a leg, complexion brown or fair, A drefs well chofen, or a patch mifplac'd, Conciliate favour, or create diftafte.

From galleries ioud peals of laughter roll, And thunder Shuter's praifes, - he's fo droll. Embox'd, the ladies muft have fomething fmatt, Palmer! Oh! Palmer tops the janty part. Seated in pit, the dwarf, with aching eycs, Looks up, and vows that Barry's out of fize; Whilft to fix feet the vig'rous ftripling grown, Declares that Garrick is another Coan.

At length agreed, all fquabbles to decide, By fome one judge the caufe was to be try'd; But this their fquabbles did afrefh renew, Who hould be judge in fuch a trial: - Who?

For Johnson fome, but Johnson, it was fear'd, Would be too grave; and Sterne too gay appear'd; Others for Franklin voted; but 'twas known, Ifc ficken'd at all triumphs but his own; For Colman many, but the peevifh tongue Of prudent Age found out that he was Young. The day of tryal's fix'd, nor any fear Left day of tryal hould be put off here. Caufes but feldom for delay can call In courts where forms are few, fees none at all!.

The morning came, nor find I that the fun;
As he on other great events hath done, Put on a brighter robe than what he wore To go his journey in the day before.

Full in the centre of a fpacious plain,
On plan entirely new, where nothing vain,
Nothing magnificent appear'd, but Art, With decent modefty, perform'd her part,
Rofe a tribunal: from no other court
It borrow'd ornament, or fought fupport :
No juries here were pack'd to kill or clear,
No bribes were taken, nor oaths broken here ;
No gownfmen, partial to a client's caufe,
To their own purpofe tun'd the pliant laws.
Each judge was true and fteady to his truft, As Mansfield wife, and as old Forster juft.

In the firft feat, in robe of various dyes,
A noble wildnefs flafhing from his eyes,
Sat Shakespeare.-In one hand a wand he bore,
For mighty wonders fam'd in days of yore;
The other held a globe, which to his will
Obedient turn'd, and own'd the mafter's fkill:
Things of the nobleft kind his genius drew, And look'd through Nature at a fugle view:
A loofe he gave to his unbounded foul, And taught new lands to rife, new feas to roll;

Call'd into being feenes unknown before, And, pailing Nature's bounds, was fomething more.

Next Jounsoiv fat, in antient learning train'd, His rigid Judgment Fancy's flights reftrain'd, Corrcctly prun'd each wild luxuriant thought, Mark'd out her courfe, nor fpar'd a glorious fault. The book of man he read with niceft art, And ranfack'd all the fecrets of the heart;
Exerted Penetration's utmoft force, And trac'd each paffion to its proper fource, 'Then, Atrongly mark'd, in livelieft colours drew, And brought each foible forth to public view. Invoke the mufe to quit her calm abode, And waken mem'ry with a fleeping ode.
For how fhould mortal man, in mortal verfe, Their titles, merits, or their names rehearfe? But give, kind Dulnefs, memory and rhime, We'll put off Genius till another time.

Begotten by fir Critic on faint Prude.

Then came drum, trumpet, bautboy, fiddle, fute: Next finuffer, fweeper, 乃lifter, foldier, mute:
Legions of angels all in white advance;
Furies, all fire, come forward in a dance:
Pantomine figures then are brought to view,

Behind a group of figures awe create, Set off with all th' impertinence of fate ; By lace and feather confecrate to fame, Expletive kings, and queens without a name.

Herc Havard, all ferene, in the fame frains, Loves, hates, and rages, triumphs, and complains; His eafy vacant face proclaim'd a heart Which could not feel emotions, nor impart. With him came mighty Davies.-On my life, That Davies hath a very pretty wife! Statefman all over!-In plots famous grown!He mouths a fentence, as curs mouth a bone.

Next Holland came. - With truly tragic falk, He creeps, he flies. - A Hero fhould not walk. As if with heav'n he warr'd, his eager eyes Planted their batteries againft the fkies, Attitude, action, air, paufe, ftart, figh, groan, He borrow'd, and made ufe of as his own. By fortune thrown on any other ftage, He might, perhaps, have pleas'd an eafy age; But now appears a copy, and no more, Of fomething better we have feen before.

The actor who would build a folid fame,
Muft imitation's fervile arts difclaim;
Act from himfelf, on his own bottom ftand.
I hate e'en Garrick thus at fecond hand.

Behind came King.-Bred up in modeft lore, Bafhful and young he fought Hibernia's fhore ;
Hibernia, fam'd, 'bove ev'ry other grace,
For matchlefs intrepidity of face.
From her his Features caught the gen'rous flame,
And bid defiance to all fenfe of fhame:
Tutor'd by her all rivals to furpafs,
'Mongft Drury's fons he comes, and fhines in Brass.

Lo Yates !-Without the leaft fineffe of art
He gets applaufe!-I wifh he'd get his part.
When hot impatience is in full career,
How vilely " Hark'e! Hark'e!" grates the ear?
When active fancy from the brain is fent,
And ftands on tip-toe for fome wifh'd event,
I hate thofe carelefs blunders which recall
Sufpended fenfe, and prove it fiction all.

In characters of low and vulgar mould, Where nature's coarfeft features we behold, Wherc, deftitute of ev'ry decent grace, Unmanner'd jefts are blurted in your face, There Yates with juftice frict attention draws, Acts truly from himfelf, and gains applaufe. But when, to pleafe himfelf or charm his wife, He aims at fomething in politer life, When, blindly thwarting Nature's fubborn plan, He treads the ftage, by way of gentleman, The fop, who no one touch of breeding knows, Looks like Tom Errand drefs'd in Clincher's cloaths. Fond of his drefs, fond of his perfon grown, Laugh'd at by all, and to himfelf unknown, From fide to fide he ftruts, he fmiles, he prates, And feems to wonder what's become of Yates.

Woodward, endow'd with various pow'rs of face, Great mafter in the fcience of grimace, From Ireland ventures, fav'rite of the town, Lur'd by the pleafing profpect of renown; A fqueaking Harlequin made up of whim, He twifts, he twines, he tortures ev'ry limb,

Plays to the eye with a mere monkey's art,
And leaves to fenfe the conqueft of the heart.
We laugh indeed, but on reflection's birth,
We wonder at ourfelves, and curfe our mirth.
His walk of parts he fatally mifplac'd,
And inclination fondly took for tafte;
Hence hath the town fo often feen difplay'd
Beau in Burlefque, High Life in Mafquerade.
But when bold Wits, not fuch as patch up plays,
Cold and correct in thefe infipid days,
Some comic character, ftrong-featur'd, urge
To probability's extremeft verge,
Where modeft judgment her decree fufpends,
And for a time, nor cenfures, nor commends, Where critics can't determine on the fpot,
Whether it is in Nature found or not,
There Woodward fafely fhall his pow'rs exert,
Nor fail of favour where he fhews defert.
Hence he in Bobadil fuch praifes bore,
Such worthy praifes, Kitely fcarce had more.

By turns transform'd into all kind of fhapes, Conftant to none, Foote laughs, cries, ftruts, and fcrapes:

Doth a man futter, look a-fquint, or halt? Mimics draw humour out of Nature's fault: With perfonal defects their mirth adorn, And hang misfortunes out to public fcorn. E'en I, whom Nature caft in hideous mould, Whom having made fhe trembled to behold, Beneath the load of mimicry may groan, And find that Nature's errors are my own,

Shadows behind of Foote and Woodward came; Wilkinson this, Obrien was that name. Strange to relate, but wonderfully true, That even fhadows have their fhadows too!
With not a fingle comic pow'r endu'd, The firft a mere mere mimic's mimic ftood. The laft, by Nature form'd to pleafe, who fhows, In Johnson's Stephen, which way Genius grows; Self quite put off, affects, with too much art, 'So put on Woodward in each mangled part;

Are double guilt in men of real parts.

By Nature form'd in her perverfert mood,
With no one requifite of Art endu'd,
Next Jackson came-Obferve that fettled glare,

Lift to that voice - did ever Discord hear
Sounds fo well fitted to her untun'd ear?

Old Falstaff, play'd by Love, fhall pleafe once more, And humour fet the audience in a roar.

Actors I've feen, and of no vulgar name, Who, being from one part poffefs'd of fame, Whether they are to laugh, cry, whine, or bawl, Still introduce that fav'rite part in all.
Here, Love, be cautious - ne'er be thou betray'd To call in that wag Falstaff's dang'rous aid; Like Goтнs of old, howe'er he feems a friend, He'll feize that throne, you wifh him to defend, In a peculiar mould by Humour caft,
For Falstaff fam'd - Himfelf the Firf and Laft, -
He ftands aloof from all-maintains his ftate, And fcorns, like $S c o t$ finen, to affimilate.
Vain all difguife - too plain we fee the trick, Tho' the knight wears the weeds of Dominic,

French follies, univerfally embrac'd,

Long, from a nation ever hardly us'd, At random cenfur'd, wantonly abus'd, Have Britons drawn their fport, with partial view Form'd gen'ral notions from the rafcal few; Condemn'd a people, as for vices known, Which, from their country banifh'd, feek our own. For ftill you'll find, trace paffions to their root,
Small diff'rence 'twixt the Stoic and the Brute.
In fancied fcenes, as in life's real plan,
He could not, for a moment, fink the Man.
In whate'er caft his character was laid, Sclf fill, like oil, upon the furface play'd. Nature, in fpite of all his fkill, crept in: Horatio, Dorax, Falftaff, -ftill 'twas Quin.

Next follows Sheridan.-A doubtful name,
As yet unfettled in the rank of fame.

CRITICAL REVIEWERS.

AUGHS not the heart, when Giants, big with pride, Affume the pompous port, the martial flride;
O'er arm Herculean heave th' cnormous fhield,
Vaft as a weaver's beam the javelin wield;
With the loud voice of thund'ring Jove defy, And dare to fingle combat - What? - A Fly.
$5^{6}$ Wrlllllllll 1
And laugh we lefs, when Giant names, which fhine Eftablifh'd, as it were, by right divine;
CRITICS, whom ev'ry captive art adores, To whom glad Science pours forth all her fores;
Who high in letter'd reputation fit, And hold, Astrea like, the fcales of Wit; With partial rage ruh forth, -Oh! fhame to tell! To crufh a bard juft burfing from the fhell?

Great are his perils in this formy time Who rafhly ventures on a fea of Rime. Around vaft furges roll, winds envious blow, And jealous rocks and quickfands lurk below, Greatly his foes he dreads, but more his friends; He hurts me mof who lavifhly commends.

Look thro' the world - in ev'ry other trade The fame employment's caufe of kindnefs made ;
At lealt appearance of good will creates;
And ev'ry fool puffs off the fool he hates: Coblers with coblers fmoke away the night, And in the common caufe e'en Play'rs unite. Authors alone, with more than favage rage, Unnat'ral war with brother authors wage.

T H E A P O L O G Y.

The pride of Nature would as foon admit
Competitors in empire as in wit:
Onward they rufh at Fame's imperious call, And, lefs than greateft, would not be at all.

Smit with the love of Honour, - or the Pence,
O'er-run with wit, and deftitute of fenfe,
If any novice in the riming trade,
With lawlefs pen the realms of verfe invade;
Forth from the court, where fcepterd fages fit,
Abus'd with praife, and flatter'd into wit;
Where in lethargic majetty they reign,
And what they won by dullnefs ftill maintain;
Legions of factious authors throng at once;
Fool beckons fool, and dunce awakens dunce.
To Hamilton's the Ready Lies repair ; -
Ne'er was Lye made which was not welcome there. -
Thence, on maturer judgment's anvil wrought,
The polifh'd fallhood's into public brought.
Quick circulating flanders mirth afford,
And reputation bleeds in ev'ry word.

A Critic was of old a glorious name, Whofe fanction handed merit up to fame;

$\begin{array}{lllllllllll} & 5 & \mathrm{~T} & \mathrm{H} & \mathrm{E} & \mathrm{A} & \mathrm{P} & \mathrm{O} & \mathrm{L} & \mathrm{O} & \mathrm{G}\end{array} \mathbf{Y}$.

Beauties as well as faults he brought to view :
His Judgment great, and great his Candour too.
No fervile rules drew fickly tafte afide ;
Secure he walk'd, for Nature was his guide.
But now, Oh Atrange reverfe! our Critics bawl
In praife of Candour with a Heart of Gall.
Confcious of guilt, and fearful of the light, 'They lurk enfhrouded in the veil of night: Safe from detection, feize th' unwary prey, And ftab, like bravoes, all who come that way.

When firft my mufe, perhaps more bold than wife, Bad the rude trifle into light arife, Little fhe thought fuch tempefts would enfue, Lefs, that thofe tempefts would be rais'd by you. The thunder's fury rends the tow'ring oak, Rosciads, like fhrubs, might 'fcape the fatal ftroke. Vain thought! a Critic's fury knows no bound; Drawcansir like, he deals deftruction round; Nor can we hope he will a ftranger fpare, Who gives no quarter to his friend Voltare.

> Unhappy Genius! plac'd by partial Fate With a free fpirit in a davifh ftate;

T H E A P O

Where the reluctant Mufe, opprefs'd by kings,
Or droops in filence, or in fetters fings.
In vain thy dauntlefs fortitude hath borne
The bigot's furious zeal, and tyrant's fcorn.
Why didft thou fafe from home-bred dangers fteer,
Referv'd to perifh more ignobly here?
Thus, when the Julian Tyrant's pride to fwell
Rome with her Ромpey at Pharfalia fell,
The vanquifh'd chief efcap'd from Cexsar's hand
To die by ruffians in a foreign land.

How could thefe felf-elected monarchs raife So large an empire on fo fmall a bafe ?
In what retreat, inglorious and unknown,
Did Genius fleep when Dullnefs feiz'd the throne?
Whence abfolute now grown, and free from awe,
She to the fubject world difpenfes law.
Without her licence, not a letter ftirs;
And all the captive crifs-crofs-row is hers.
The Stagyrite, who rules from Nature drew,
Opinions gave, but gave his reafons too.
Our great Dictators take a fhorter way -
Who fhall difpute what the Reviewers fay?

60 T H E A P O L O
Their word's fufficient; and to afk a reafon, In fuch a fate as theirs, is downright treafon. True judgment now with Them alone can dwell; Like church of Rome, they're grown infallible. Dull fuperftitious readers they deceive, Who pin their eafy faith on critic's fleeve, And, knowing nothing, ev'ry thing believe!
But why repine we, that thefe Puny Elves Shoot into Giants? - We may thank ourfelves; Fools that we are, like Ifrael's fools of yore, The Calf ourfelves have fafhion'd we adore. But let true Reafon once refume her reign, This God fhall dwindle to a Calf again.

Founded on arts which fhun the face of day, By the fame arts they fill maintain their fway. Wrapp'd in myfterious fecrecy they rife, And, as they are unknown, are fafe and wife. At whomfoever aim'd, howe'er fevere Thi envenom'd flander flies, no names appear. Prudence forbid that ftep. - Then all might know, And on more equal terms engage the foe. But now, what Quixote of the age would care To wage a war with dirt, and fight with air?

T H E A P O L O G Y. 6I

By int'reft join'd, th' expert confed'rates ftand,
And play the game into each others hand.
The vile abufe, in turn by all deny'd,
Is bandy'd up and down from fide to fide:
It flies—hey!—prefto!-like a jugler's ball,
'Till it belongs to nobody at all.

All men and things they know, themfelves unknown, And publifh ev'ry name - except their own.
Nor think this ftrange - fecure from vulgar eyes
The namelefs author paffes in difguife.
But vet'ran critics are not fo deceiv'd,
If vet'ran critics are to be believ'd.
Once feen, they know an author evermore,
Nay fwear to hands they never faw before.
Thus in the Rosciad, beyond chance or doubt,
They; by the writing, found the writers out.
" That's Lloyd's - his manner there you plainly trace,
" And all the Actor ftares you in the face.
" By Colman that was written. - On my life,
"The ftrongeft fymptoms of the Jealous Wife,
" That little difingenuous piece of fpite,
" Churchill, a wretch unknown, perhaps might write."

How doth it make judicious readers fmile, When authors are detected by their ftile :
Tho' ev'ry one who knows this author, knows He fhifts his ftile much oftner than his cloaths?

Whence could arife this mighty critic fpleen, The Mufe a trifler, and her theme fo mean ? What had I done, that angry Heaven hould fend The bitt'reft Foe where moft I wifh'd a Friend?
Oft hath my tongue been wanton at thy name, And hail'd the honours of thy matchlefs fame. For me let hoary Fielding bite the ground So nobler Pickle ftand fuperbly bound. From Livy's temples tear th' hiftoric crown, Which with more juftice blooms upon thine own. Compar'd with thee, be all life-writers dumb, But he who wrote the Life of Tomму Thumb. Who ever read the Regicide, but fwore The author wrote as man ne'er wrote before?
Others for plots and under-plots may call, Here's the right method - have no plot at all. Who can fo often in his caufe engage The tiny Pathos of the Grecian ftage,

T H E A P O L O G Y. $\quad 63$

Whilft horrors rife, and tears fpontaneous flow
At tragic Ha! and no lefs tragic Oh!?
To praife his nervous weakness all agree;
And then, for fweetnefs, who fo fweet as he?
Too big for utterance when forrows fwell
The too big forrows flowing tears mult tell :
But when thofe flowing tears fhall ceafe to flow,
Why - then the voice muft fpeak again you know.

Rude and unkkilful in the Poet's trade, I kept no Naiads by me ready-made;
Ne'er did I colours high in air advance, Torn from the bleeding fopperies of France;
No flimfey linfey-woolfey fcenes I wrote, With patches here and there like Jofeph's coat.
Me humbler themes befit: Secure, for me,
Let Playwrights fmuggle nonfenfe duty free:
Secure, for me, ye lambs, ye lambkins bound, And frifk and frolic o'er the fairy ground:
Secure, for me, thou pretty little fawn
Lick Sylvia's hand, and crop the flow'ry lawn:
Uncenfur'd let the gentle breezes rove,
Thro' the green umbrage of th' enchanted grove;

Secure, for me, let foppifh Nature fmile, And play the coxcomb in the Desart Isle.

The fage I chofe-a fubject fair and free'Tis yours - 'tis mine - 'tis Public Property.
All Common Exhibitions open lie
For Praife or Cenfure to the Common Eye.
Hence are a thoufand Hackney-writers fed;
Hence Monthly Critics earn their Daily-Bread.
This is a gen'ral tax which all muft pay,
From thofe who fcribble, down to thofe who play.
Actors, a venal crew, receive fupport
From public bounty, for the public fport.
To clap or hifs, all have an equal claim,
The cobler's and his lordfhip's right the fame.
All join for their fubfiftence; all expect
Free leave to praife their worth, their faults correct.
When active Pickle Smithfield fage afcends,
The three days wonder of his laughing friends;
Each, or as judgment, or as fancy guides,
The lively witling praifes or derides.
And where's the mighty diff'rence, tell me where,
Betwixt a Merry Andrew and a Play'r?

T H E A P O L O G Y.

The ftrolling tribe, a defpicable race,
Like wand'ring Arabs, fhift from place to place.
Vagrants by law, to Juftice open laid, They tremble, of the beadle's lanh afraid, And fawning cringe, for wretched means of life, To Madam May'refs, or his Worfhip's Wife.

The mighty monarch, in theatric fack,
Carries his whole regalia at his back:
His royal confort heads the female band,
And leads the heir-apparent in her hand;
The pannier'd afs creeps on with confcious pride,
Bearing a future prince on either fide.
No choice muficians in this troop are found To varnifh nonfenfe with the charms of found ; No fwords, no daggers, not one poifon'd bowl; No lightning flafhes here, no thunders roll; No guards to fwell the monarch's train are fhown; The monarch here muft be a hoft alone.
No folemn pomp, no flow proceffion's here; No Ammon's entry, and no Juliet's bier.

By need compell'd to proftitute his art, The varied actor flies from part to part;

66 T H E A P O L O

And, ftrange difgrace to all theatric pride! His character is hifted with his fide.

Quefion and Anfwer he by turns muft be, Like that fmall wit in Modern Tragedy;
Who, to fupport his fame, - or fill his purfe, - .
Still pilfers wretched plans, and makes them worfe;
Like gypfies, left the ftolen brat be known,
Defacing firft, then claiming for his own.
In fhabby ftate they ftrut, and tatter'd robe; The fcene a blanket, and a barn the globe. No high conceits their mod'rate wifhes raife, Content with humble profit, humble praife. Let dowdies fimper, and let bumpkins ftare, The ftrolling pageant hero treads in air: Pleas'd for his hour, he to mankind gives law, And fiores the next out on a trufs of ftraw.

But if kind Fortune, who we fometimes know Can take a hero from a puppet-fhow,
In mood propitious fhould her fav'rite call,
On royal ftage in royal pomp to bawl,
Forgetful of himfelf he rears the head,
And foorns the dunghill where he firft was bred:

T H E A P O L O G Y.

Converfing now with well-drefs'd kings and queens, With gods and goddeffes behind the fcenes, Heifweats beneath the terror-nodding plume, Taught by Mock Honours Real Pride t'affume. On this great ftage, the World, no Monarch e'er Was half fo haughty as a Monarch-Play'r.

Doth it more move our anger or our mirth To fee thefe Things, the loweft fons of earth, Prefume, with felf-fufficient knowledge grac'd, To rule in Letters, and prefide in Tafte? The Town's decifions they no more admit, Themfelves alone the Arbiters of Wit; And fcorn the jurifdiction of that Court, To which they owe their being and fupport. Actors, like monks of old, now facred grown, Muft be attack'd by no fools but their own.

Let the Vain Tyrant fit amidft his guards, His puny Green-room Wits and Venal Bards, Who meanly tremble at the Puppet's frown, And for a Playhoufe Freedom lofe their own; In fpite of new-made Laws, and new-made Kings, The free-born Mufe with lib'ral fpirit fings.

68

Bow down, ye Slaves; before thefe Idols fall; Let Genius ftoop to them who've none at all; Ne'er will I flatter, cringe, or bend the knee To thofe who, Slaves to All, are Slaves to Me.

Actors, as Actors, are a lawful game; The poet's right ; and Who fhall bar his claim? And if, o'er-weening of their little fkill, When they have left the Stage, they're Actors ftill; If to the fubject world they ftill give laws, With paper crowns, and fceptres made of ftraws; If they in cellar or in garret roar, And Kings one night, are Kings for evermore; Shall not bold Truth, e'en there, purfue her theme, And wake the Coxcomb from his golden dream?
Or if well worthy of a better fate, They rife fuperior to their prefent fate; If, with each focial virtue grac'd, they blend The gay companion and the faithful friend: If they, like Pritchard, join in private life The tender parent and the virtuous wife; Shall not our Verfe their praife with pleafure fpeak, Though Mimics bark, and Envy fplit her cheek ?

T H E A P O L O G Y.

No honeft worth's beneath the Mufe's praife;
No greatnefs can above her cenfure raife:
Station and wealth, to Her, are trilling things; She ftoops to Actors, and fhe foars to Kings.

Is there a man, in vice and folly bred, To fenfe of honour as to virtue dead; Whom ties nor human, nor divine, can bind; Alien to God, and foe to all mankind; Who fpares no character; whofe ev'ry word, Bitter as gall, and fharper than the fword, Cuts to the quick; whofe thoughts with rancour fwell: Whofe tongue, on earth, performs the wor's of Hell?
If there be fuch a monfter, the Reviews Shall find him holding forth againt Abufe. " Attack Profeffion!-'tis a deadly breach!" The Chriftian laws another leffon teach: " Unto the End fhould charity endure, "And candour hide thefe faults it cannot cure." Thus Candour's maxims flow from Rancour's throat ${ }_{9}$. As devils, to ferve their purpofe, Scripture quote.

The Mufe's office was by Heaven defign'd, To pleafe, improve, inftruct, reform mankind;

70 T H E A P O L O G Y.

To make dejected Virtue nobly rife Above the tow'ring pitch of fplendid Vice; 'To make pale Vice, abafh'd, her head hang down, And trembling crouch at Virtue's awful frown. Now arm'd with wrath, fhe bids eternal fhame, With fricteft juftice, brand the villain's name: Now in the milder garb of Ridicule She fports, and pleafes while fhe wounds the Fool. Her hape is often varied; but her aim, To prop the caufe of Virtue, fill the fame. In praife of Mercy let the guilty bawl, When Vice and Folly for Correction call, Silence the mark of weaknefs juftly bears, And is partaker of the crimes it fpares.

But if tine Mufe, too cruel in her mirth, With harfh reflections wounds the man of worth. If wantonly the deviates from her plan, And quits the Actor to expofe the Man; Afham'd, fhe marks that paffage with a blot, And hates the line where Candour was forgot.

But what is Candour, what is Humour's vein, Tho' Judgment join to confecrate the frain,

T H E A P O L O G Y. $\quad$ Y

If curious numbers will not aid afford, Nor choiceft mufic play in ev'ry word? Verfes mult run, to charm a modern ear, From all harfh, rugged interruptions clear : Soft let them breathe, as Zephyr's balmy breeze; Smooth let their current flow as fummer feas; Perfect then only deem'd when they difpenfe
A happy tuneful vacancy of fenfe.
Italian fathers thus, with barb'rous rage,
Fit helplefs infants for the fqueaking fage;
Deaf to the calls of pity, Nature wound, And mangle vigour for the fake of found. Henceforth farewell then fev'rifh thirft of fame;
Farewell the longings for a Poet's name; Perifh my Mufe; -a wifh 'bove all fevere To him who ever held the Mufes dear, If e'er her labours weaken to refine The gen'rous roughnefs of a nervous line.

Others affect the fiff and fwelling phrafe; • Their Mufe muft walk in ftilts, and ftrut in flays: The fenfe they murder, and the words tranfpofe, Left Poetry approach too near to Profe.

T H E A P O L O G Y.

See tortur'd Reafon how they pare and trim, And, like Procruftes, ftretch or lop the limb.

Waller, whofe praife fucceeding bards rehearfe, Parent of harmony in Englifh verfe, Whofe tuneful Mufe in fweeteft accents flows, In couplets firft taught ftraggling fenfe to clofe.

In polifh'd numbers, and majeftic found, Where fhall thy rival, Pope, be ever found? But whilft each line with equal beauty flows, E'en excellence, unvaried, tedious grows. Nature, thro' all her works, in great degree, Borrows a blefling from Variety. Mufic itfelf her needful aid requires To rouze the foul, and wake our dying fires. Still in one key, the Nightengale would teize: Still in one key, not Brent would always pleafe.

Herc let me bend, great $\mathrm{D}_{\mathrm{ryden}}$, at thy hrine, Thou deareft mame to all the tuneful nine. What if fome dull Lines in cold order creep, And with his theme the poet feems to fleep?

Still when his fubject difes proud to view, With equal frength the poets rifes too. With ftrong invention, nobleft vigour fraught, Thought fitl fprings up and rifes out of thought; Numbers ennobling numbers in their courfe.
In varied fweetnefs flow, in varied force;
The pow'rs of Genius and of Judgment join, And the whole Art of Poetry is Thine.

But what are Numbers, what are Bards to me, Forbid to tread the paths of Poefy?
" A facred Mufe fhould confecrate her Pen;
" Priefts muft not hear nor fee like other Men;
" Far higher themes fhould her ambition claim ;
" Behold where Sternhold points the way to Fame."

Whilf, with miftaken zeal dull bigots burn,
Let Reafon for a moment take her turn. When Coffee-fages hold difcourfe with kings,
And blindly walk in Paper Leading-ftrings,
What if a man delight to pafs his time
In fpinning Reafon into harmiefs Rime;
Or fometimes boldly venture to the Play?
Say, Where's the Crime? - great Man of Prudence, fay?

No two on earth in one thing can agree,
All have fonie darling fingularity,
Women and men, as well as girls and boys,
In Gew-gaws take delight, and figh for toys.
Your fcepters, and your crowns, and fuch like things,
Are but a better kind of toys for kings.
In things indiff'rent Reafon bids us chufe,
Whether the whim's a Moneey or a Muse.

What the grave triflers on this bufy fcene, When they make ufe of this word Reason, mean,

I know not; but according to my plan, 'Tis Lord-chief-justice in the Court of Man, Equally form'd to rule in age and youth, The Friend of Virtue and the Guide to Truth. To Her I bow, whofe facred power I feel; To Her decifion make my laft appeal ;
Condemn'd by Her, applauding worlds in vain Should tempt me to take up the Pen again:
By Her abfolv'd, my courfe I'll Rill purfue:
If Reason's for me, GOD is for me too.

Freely may bafk in Fortune's partial ray,
And fpread their feathers op'ning to the day;
But thread-bare Merit dares not hew the head
'Till vain Profperity retires to bed.
Misfortunes, like the Owl , avoid the light ;
The fons of Care are always fons of Nigit.

The Wretch bred up in Method's drowfy fchool, Whofe merit only is to err by rule,
Who ne'er thro' heat of blood was tripping caught, Nor guilty deem'd of one eccentric thought, Whofe foul directed to no ufe is feen, Unlefs to move the body's dull Machine; Which, clock-work like, with the fame equal pace, Still travels on thro' life's infipid fpace, Turns up his eyes to think that there fhould be Among God's creatures two fuch things as we. Then for his night-cap calls, and thanks the pow'rs Which kindly gave him grace to keep good bours.

Good bours- Fine words-but was it ever feen That all Men could agree in what they mean ?
Florio, who imany ycars a courfe hath run

Let the fage Doctor (think him one we know) With fcraps of ancient learning overflow,
In all the dignity of wig declare
The fatal confequence of midnight air,
How damps and vapours, as it were by ftealth, Undermine life, and fap the walls of health.
For me let Galen moulder on the fhelf,

In diff'rent courfes diff'rent tempers run, He hates the Moon, I ficken at the Sun. Wound up at twelve at noon, bis clock goes right, Mine better goes, wound up at twelve at night.

Then in Oblivion's grateful cup I drown The galling fneer, the fupercilious frown, The ftrange referve, the proud affected flate Of upftart knaves grown rich, and fools grown great. No more that abject wretch difturbs my reft, Who meanly overlooks a friend diftreft.
Purblind to Poverty the Worlding goes,
And farce fees rags an inch beyond his nofe; But from a crowd can fingle out his grace, And cringe and creep to fools who ftrut in lace.

Whether thofe clafic regions are furvey'd Where we in earlieft youth together ftray'd, Where hand in hand we trod the flow'ry fhore, Tho' now thy happier genius runs before,
When we confpir'd a thanklefs wretch to raife, And taught a fromp to thoot with pilfer'd proif,

Who once for Rev'rend merit famous grown, Gratefully ftrove to kick his Maker down, Or if more gen'ral arguments engage, The court or camp, the pulpit, bar or ftage ; If half-bred furgeons, whom men doctors call, And lawyers, who were never bred at all, Thofe mighty-letter'd monfters of the earth, Our pity move, or exercife our mirth; Or if in tittle-tattle, tooth-pick way, Our rambling thoughts with eafy freedom ftray; A gainer fill thy friend himfelf mult find, His grief fufpended, and improv'd his mind.

Whilft peaceful flumbers blefs the homely bed, Where virtue, felf-approv'd, reclines her head; Whilft vice beneath imagin'd horrors mourns, And confcience plants the villian's couch with thorns, Impatient of reftraint, the active mind, No more by fervile prejudice confin'd, Leaps from her feat, as wak'ned from a trance, And darts through Nature at a fingle glance. Then we our friends, our foes, ourfelves, furvey, And fee by Night what fools we are by Day.

Stript of her gawdy plumes and vain difguife, See where ambition mean and loathfome lies!
Reflection with relentlefs hand pulls down
The tyrant's bloody wreath and ravifh'd crown.
In vain he tells of battles bravely won,
Of nations conquer'd, and of worlds undone: Triumphs like thefe but ill with manhood fuit, And fink the conqueror beneath the brute.
But if, in fearching round the world, we find Some gen'rous youth, the friend of all mankind, Whofe anger, like the bolt of Jove, is fped
In terrors only at the guilty head,
Whofe mercies, like Heav'n's dew, refrefhing fall In gen'ral love and charity to all,
Pleas'd we behold fuch worth on any throne, And doubly pleas'd we find it on our own.

Through a falfe medium things are fhewn by day, Pomp, wealth, and titles, judgment lead aftray. How many from appearance borrow ftate, Whom Night difdains to number with the Great! Muft not we laugh to fee yon lordling proud Snuff up vile incenfe from a fawning crowd?

A fenfe of honour would deftroy his fchemes, And confcience ne'er mult fpeak unlefs in dreams.
When he hath tamely borne, for many years,
Cold looks, forbidding frowns, contemptuous fneers,
When he at laft cxpects, good eafy man,
To reap the profits of his labour'd plan,
Some cringing Lacquey, or rapacious Whore,
To favours of the great the fureft door,
Some Catamite, or Pimp, in credit grown, Who tempts another's wife, or fells his own, Steps crofs his hopes, the promis'd boon denies, And for fome Minion's Minion claims the prize,

Foe to reftraint, upractis'd in deceit; Too refolute, from nature's active heat, To brook affronts, and tamely pafs them by; Too proud to flatter, too fincere to lye, Too plain to pleafe, too honef to be great; Give me, kind Heaven, an humbler, happier ftate: Far from the place where men with pride deceive, Where rafcals promife, and where fools believe; Far from the walk of folly, vice and Atrife, Calm, independent, let me fteal thro' life,

Nor one vain wifh my fteady thoughts beguile To fear his lordfhip's frown, or court his fmile. Unfit for greatnefs, I her fnares defy, And look on riches with untainted eye. To others let the glitt'ring bawbles fall, Content fhall place us far above them all.

Spectators only on this buftling ftage, We fee what vain defigns mankind engage; Vice after vice with ardour they purfue, And one old folly brings forth twenty new. Perplex'd with trifles thro' the vale of life, Man ftrives 'gainft man, without a caufe for ftrife; Armies embattled meet, and thoufands bleed, For fome vile fpot, which cannot fifty feed. Squirrels for nuts contend, and, wrong or right, For the world's empire kings ambitious fight, What odds? - to us 'tis all the felf-fame thing, A Nut, a World, a Squirrel, and a King.

Britons, like Roman fpirits fam'd of old, Are caft by nature in a Patriot mould; No private joy, no private grief they know, Their foul's ingrofs'd by public weal or woe.

$\mathrm{N} \quad \mathrm{I} \quad \mathrm{G} \quad \mathrm{H} \quad \mathrm{T}$.

Inglorious eafe, like ours, they greatly fcorn: Let care with nobler wreaths their brows adorn. Gladly they toil beneath the ftatefman's pains, Give them but credit for a ftatefman's brains. All would be deen'd e'en from the cradle fit To rule in politics as well as wit.
The grave, the gay, the fopling, and the dunce, Start up (God blefs us!) ftatefmen all at once.

His mighty charge of fouls the prieff forgets, The court-bred lord his promifes and debts, Soldiers their fame, mifers forget their pelf, The rake his miftrefs, and the fop himfelf; Whilft thoughts of higher moment claim their care, And their wife heads the weight of kingdoms bear.

Females themfelves the glorious ardour feel, And boaft an equal, or a greater zeal, From nymph to nymph the fate infection flies, Swells in her breaft, and fparkles in her eyes. O'erwhelm'd by politics lie malice, pride, Envy, and twenty other faults befide. No more their little flutt'ring hearts confefs A paffion for applaufe, or rage for direfs;

88 N I G H T.
No more they pant for Public Raree-shows, Or loofe one thought on monkeys or on beaux. Coquettes no more purfue the jilting plan, And lufful prudes forget to rail at man. The darling theme C 厄 CILIA's felf will chufe, Nor thinks of fcandal whilft the talks of news.

The CIT, a Common-Council-Man by place, Ten thoufand mighty nothings in his face, By fituation as by nature great, With nice precifion parcels out the ftate; Proves and difproves, affirms, and then denies, Objects himfelf, and to himfelf replies; Wielding aloft the Politician rod, Makes Pitt by turns a devil and a god; Maintains, e'en to the very teeth of pow'r, The fame thing right and wrong in half an hour. Now all is well, now he fufpects a plot, And plainly proves, whateveris, is not. Fearfully wife, he fhakes his empty head, And deals out empires as he deals out thread. His ufelefs feales are in a corner flung, And Europe's balance hangs upon his tongue.
$\mathrm{N} \quad \mathrm{I} \quad \mathrm{G} \quad \mathrm{H} \quad \mathrm{T}$.

Peace to fuch triflers, be our happier plan To pafs thro' life as eafy as we can. Who's in or out, who moves this grand machine, Nor ftirs my curiofity nor fpleen.
Secrets of fate no more I wifh to know
Than fecret movements of a Puppet-show;
Let but the puppets move, l've my defire,
Unfeen the hand which guides the Master-wire.

What is't to us, if taxes rife or fall, Thanks to our fortune we pay none at all. Let muckworms, who in dirty acres deal, Lament thofe hardfhips which we cannot feel. His Grace, who fmarts, may bellow if he pleafe, But muft I bellow too, who fit at eafe? By cuftom fafe the poet's numbers flow, Free as the light and air fome years ago. No ftatefman e'er will find it worth his pains To tax our labours, and excife our brains. Burthens like thefe vile earthly buildings bear, No tribute's laid on Cafles in the Air.

Let then the flames of war defrediec reign, And England's terrors awe imperious Span;

90

Let ev'ry venal clan and neutral tribe
Learn to reccive conditions, not prefcribe;
Let cach new-year call loud for new fupplies,
And tax on tax with double burthen rife;
Exempt we fit, by no rude cares oppref, And, having little, are with little blef.
All real ills in dark oblivion lie,
And joys, by fancy form'd, their place fupply. Night's laughing hours unheeded flip away, Nor one dull thought foretells approach of $\mathrm{D}_{\mathrm{A}}$.

Thus have we liv'd, and whillt the fates afford Plain Plenty to fupply the frugal board, Whilft Mirth, with Decency his lovely bride, And Wine's gay God, with Temp'rance by his fide, Their welcome vifit pay; whilf Health attends The narrow circle of our chofen friends,
Whilft frank Good-Humour confecrates the treat, And Woman makes focicty complete,
Thus will we live, tho' in our teeth are hurl'd Thofe Hackney Stumpets, Prudence and the World.

Prudence, of old a facred term, imply'd Virtue, with godlike wifdom for her guide,

But now in gen'ral ufe is known to mean The falking-horfe of vice, and folly's fcreen.
The fenfe perverted we retain the name, Hypocrify and Prudence are the fame.

A Tutor once, more read in men than books, A kind of crafty knowledge in his looks, Demurely fly, with high preferment bleft, His fav'rite pupil in thefe words addrefs'd:

Would'ft thou, my fon, be wife and virtuous deem'd, By all mankind a prodigy efteem'd?
Be this thy rule; be what men prudent call;
Prudence, almighty Prudence, gives thee all.
Keep up appearances, there lies the tef, The world will give thee credit for the reft.
Outward be fair, however foul within;
Sin if thou wilt, but then in fecret fin.
This maxim's into common favour grown, Vice is no longer vice, unlefs 'tis known, Virtue indeed may barefac'd take the field; But vice is virtue when 'tis well conceal'd. Should raging paffions drive thce to a whore, Let Prudence lead thce to a polern door;

$92 \mathrm{~N} \quad \mathrm{I} \quad \mathrm{G} \quad \mathrm{H} \quad$ T.

Stay out all night, but take efpecial care That Prudence bring thee back to early prayer. As one with watching and with fudy faint, Reel in a drunkard, and reel out a faint.

With joy the youth this ufeful leflon heard, And in his mem'ry ftor'd each precious word, Succefffully purfu'd the plan, and now, " Room for my Lord-Virtue ftand by and bow."

And is this all-is this the wordling's art, To mak, but not amend a vicious heart? Shall lukewarm caution and demeanour grave, For wife and good ftamp ev'ry fupple knave? Shall wretches, whom no real virtue warms, Gild fair their names and ftates with empty forms, Whillt Virtue feeks in vain the wifh'd-for prize, Becaufe, difdaining ill, fhe hates difguife; Becaufe fhe frankly pours forth all her ftore, Scems what the is, and fcorns to pafs for more? Well - be it fo-let vile diffemblers hold Unenvy'd pow'r, and boaft their dear-bought gold, Me neither pow'r fhall tempt, nor thirft of pelf, To flatter others or deny myfelf,

$\mathrm{N} \quad \mathrm{I} \quad \ddot{\mathrm{G}} \quad \mathrm{H} \quad \mathrm{T}$.

Might the whole world be plac'd within my fpan, I would not be that Thing, that Prudent Man.

What, cries Sir Pliant, would you then oppofe Yourfelf, alone, againft an hoft of foes?
Let not conceit, and peevifh luft to rail,
Above all fenfe of intereft prevail.
Throw off for fhame this petulance of wit,
Be wife, be modeft, and for once fubmit:
Too hard the tark 'gainft multitudes to fight, You muft be wrong, the World is in the right.

What is this World? a term which men have got To fignify, not one in ten knows what;
A term, which with no more precifion paffes To point out herds of men than herds of afles;
In common ufe no more it means we find, Than many fools in fame opinions join'd.

Can numbers then change nature's fated laws?
Can numbers make the worfe the better caufe?
Vice muft be vice, virtue be virtue ftill,
Tho' thoufands rail at good and practife ill.

04 N $1 \quad$ G $\quad \mathrm{H} \quad$ T.

Wouldt thou defend the Gaul's deftructive rage Becaufe raft nations on his part engage? Tho' to fupport the rebel Casar's caufe Tumultuous legions arm againt the laws, 'Tho' Scandal would our Patriot's name impeach, And rails at virtues which he cannot reach, What honeft man but would with joy fubmit To bleed with Cato, and retire with PITT?

Stedfait and true to virtue's facred laws, Unmov'd by vulgar cenfure or applaufe, Let the World talk, my Friend; that World we know Which calls us guilty, cannot make us fo. Unaw'd by numbers, follow Nature's plan, Affert the rights, or quit the name of man. Confider well, weigh ftrictly right and wrong; Refolve not quick, but once refolv'd be ftrong. In fpite of Dullnefs, and in fpite of Wit, If to thyfelf thou canit thyfelf acquit, Rather ftand up affur'd with confcious pride Alone, than err with millions on thy fide.

SCOTS PASTORAL.

WHE N Cupid firft inftructs his darts to fly From the fly corner of fome cook-maid's eye, The fripling raw, juft enter'd in his teens, Receives the wound, and wonders what it means; His heart, like dripping, melts, and new defire Within him ftirs, each time fhe firs the fire;

98 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.
Trembling and blufhing he the fair one views, And fain would fpeak, but can't-without a Muse.

So to the facred mount he takes his way, Prunes his young wings, and tunes his infant lay, His oaten reed to rural ditties frames, To flocks and rocks, to hills and rills proclaims, In fimpleft notes, and all unpolifh'd frains, The loves of nymphs, and eke the loves of fwains.

Clad, as your nymphs were always clad of yore, In ruftic weeds - a cook-maid now no moreBeneath an aged oak Lardella lies Green mofs her couch; her canopy the fkies. From aromatic fhrubs the roguifs gale Steals young perfumes, and wafts them thro' the vale . The youth, turn'd fwain, and fkill'd in ruftic lays, Faft by her fide his am'rous defcant plays. Herds lowe, Flocks bleat, Pies chatter, Ravens fcream, And the full chorus dies a-down the fream. The ftreams, with mufic freighted, as they pafs, Prefent the fair Lardella with a glafs, And Zephyr, to compleat the love-fick plan, Waves his light wings, and ferves her for a fan.

But, when maturer Judgment takes the lead, Thefe childifh toys on Reafon's altar bleed; Form'd after fome great man, whofe name breeds awe, Whofe ev'ry fentence Fafhion makes a law, Who on mere credit his vain trophies rears, And founds his merit on our fervile fears; Then we difcard the workings of the heart, And nature's banifh'd by mechanic art; Then, deeply read, our reading muft be fhown; Vain is that knowledge which remains unknown. Then Ostentation marches to our aid, And letter'd Pride falks forth in full parade; Beneath their care behold the work refine, Pointed each fentence, polifh'd ev'ry line. Trifles are dignified, and taught to wear The robes of Antients with a Modern air, Nonsense with Claffic ornaments is grac'd, And paffes current with the famp of Taste.

Then the rude Theocrite is ranfack'd o'er, And courtly Maro call'd from Mincio's fhore; Sicilian Mueses on our mountains roam, Eafy and free as if they were at home;

100 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.
Nymphs, Naiads, Nereids, Dryads, Satyrs, Fauns, Sport in our floods, and trip it o'er our lawns;
Flow'rs, which once flourih'd fair in Greece and Rome, More fair revive in England's meads to bloom;
Skies without cloud exotic funs adorn;
And rofes blufh, but blufh without a thorn;
Landfcapes, unknown to dowdy Nature, rife, And new creations ftrike our wond'ring eyes.

For bards, like thefe, who neither fing nor fay, Grave without thought, and without feeling gay, Whofe numbers in one even tenor flow, Atturi'd to pleafure, and attun'd to woe, Who, if plain Common-sense her vifit pays, And mars one couplet in their happy lays, As at fome Ghoft affrighted, ftart and ftare, And afk the meaning of her coming there; For bards like thefe a wreath fhall Mason bring, Lin'd with the foftef down of Folly's wing; In Love's Pagoda fhall they ever doze, And Gisbal kindly rock them to repofe; My lord - to letters as to faith molt true-
At once their patron and example too -

The PROPHECY of FAMINE. roi

Shall quaintly fafhion his love-labour'd dreams, Sigh with fad winds, and weep with weeping freams, Curious in grief, (for real grief, we know,
Is curious to drefs up the tale of woe)
From the green umbrage of fome Druid's feat, Shall his own works in his own way repeat.

Me, whom no mufe of heav'nly birth infpires,
No judgment tempers when rahh genius fires; Who boaft no merit but mere knack of rhime, Short gleams of fenfe, and fatire out of time, Who cannot follow where trim fancy leads By prattling ftreams o'er fow'r-empurpled meads; Who often, but without fuccefs, have pray'd For apt Alliteration's artful aid; Who would, but cannot, with a mafter's fkill,
Coin fine new epithets, which mean no ill, $M e$, thus uncouth, thus ev'ry way unfit For pacing poefy, and ambling wit, $\mathrm{T}_{\text {aste }}$ with contempt beholds, nor deigns to place Amongft the loweft of her favour'd race.

Thou, Nature, art my goddefs - to thy law Myfelf I dedicate - bence flavilh awe

102 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.
Which bends to fathion, and obeys the rules, Impos'd at firft, and fince obferv'd by fools. Hence thofe vile tricks which mar fair Nature's hue, And bring the fober matron forth to view, With all that artificial tawdry glare,
Which virtue fcorns, and none but ftrumpets wear.
Sick of thofe pomps, thofe vanities, that wafte Of toil, which critics now miftake for tafte, Of falfe refinements fick, and labour'd eafe, Which Art, too thinly veil'd, forbids to pleafe, By Nature's charms (inglorious truth!) fubdued, However plain her drefs, and haviour rude, To northern climes my happier courfe I fteer, Climes where the Goddefs reigns throughout the year, Where, undifturb'd by Art's rebellious plan, She rules the loyal Laird, and faitbful Clan.

To that rare foil, where virtues cluft'ring grow, What mighty bleffings doth not England owe? What waggon-loads of courage, wealth and fenfe, Doth each revolving day import from thence? To us fhe gives, difinterefted friend, Faith without fraud, and $S_{\text {tuarts }}$ without end.

The PROPHECY of FAMINE. 103

When we profperity's rich trappings wear,
Come not her gen'rous fons and take a hare? And if, by fome difaftrous turn of fate,
Change fhould enfue, and ruin feize the fate, Shall we not find, fafe in that hallow'd ground, Such refuge as the Holy Martyr found?

Nor lefs our debt in Science, tho' denied By the weak llaves of prejudice and pride. Thence came the Ramsay's, names of worthy note, Of whom one paints, as well as t'other wrote; Thence, Home, difbanded from the fons of pray'r For loving plays, tho' no dull Dean was there; Thence iffued forth, at great Macpherson's call, That old, new, Epic Paforal, Fingal; Thence, Malloch, friend alike of Cburch and State, Of Christ and Liberty, by grateful Fate Rais'd to rewards, which, in a pious reign, All darling Infidels fhould feek in vain; Thence fimple bards, by fimple prudence taught, To this wife town by fimple patrons brought, In fimple manner utter fimple lays, And take, with fimple penfions, fimple praife,

104 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.
Waft me fome mufe to Tweed's infpiring ftream, Where all the little loves and graces dream, Where flowly winding the dull waters creep, And feem themfelves to own the power of fleep, Where on the furface Lead, like feathers, fwims, There let me bathe my yet unhallow'd limbs, As once a Syrian bath'd in Jordan's flood, Wafh off my native ftains, correct that blood Which mutinies at call of Englifls pride, And, deaf to prudence, rolls a patriot tide.

From folemn thought which overhangs the brow Of patriot care, when things are-God knows how; From nice trim points, where Honour, flave to rule, In compliment to folly, plays the fool;
Ficm thofe gay fcenes, where mirth exalts his pow'r, And eafy Humour wings the laughing hour; From thofe foft better moments, when defire Beats nigh, and all the world of man's on fire, When mutual ardours of the melting fair More than repay us for whole years of care, At Friendjlip's fummons will my Wilkes retreat, And fee, once feen before, that antient feat,

That ancient feat, where majefty difplay'd Her enfigns, long before the world was made?

Mean narrow maxims, which enflave mankind, Ne'er from its bias warp thy fettled mind. Not dup'd by party, nor opinion's flave, Thofe faculties which bounteous Nature gave,
Thy honeft fpirit into practice brings,
Nor courts the fmile, nor dreads the frown of Kings.
Let rude licentious Englifhmen comply
With tumult's voice, and curfe they know not why;
Unwilling to condemn, thy foul difdains
To wear vile faction's arbitrary chains,
And ftrictly wcighs, in apprehenfion clear, Things as they are, and not as they appear. With thee Good-humour tempers lively $W_{\text {It }}$, Enthron'd with Judgment, Candour loves to fit, And Nature gave thee, open to diftrefs, A heart to pity, and a hand to blefs.

Oft have I heard thee mourn the wretched lot Of the poor, mean, defpis'd, infulted $S$ cot, Who, might calm reafon credit idle tales, By rancour forg'd where prejudice prevails,

106 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.
Or ftarves at home, or practifes, thro' fear Of ftarving, aits which damn all confcience here. When Scriblers, to the charge by int'reft led, The ficrce North-Briton foaming at their head, Pour forth invectives, deaf to candour's call, And injur'd by one alien, rail at all;
On Northern Pifgab when they take their ftand, To mark the weaknefs of that Holy Land, With needilefs truths their libels to adorn, And hang a nation up to public fcorn, Thy gen'rous foul condemns the frantic rage, And hates the faithful, but ill-natur'd, page.

The Scots are poor, cries furly Englifh pride; True is the charge, nor by themfelves denied. Are they not then in frrictelt reafon clear, Who wifely come to mend their fortunes here? If by low fupple arts fuccefsful grown, They fapp'd our vigour to encreafe their own, If, mean in want, and infolent in pow'r, 'They only fawn'd more furely to devour, Rous'd by fuch wrongs fhould Reason take alarm, And c'en the Muse for public fafety arm;

The PROPHECY of FAMINE. 107

But if they own ingenuous virtue's fway,
And follow where true honour points the way, If they revere the hand by which they're fed, And blefs the donors for their daily bread, Or by vaft debts of higher import bound, Are always humble, always grateful found, If they, directed by Paul's holy pen,
Eecome difcretely all things to all men, That all men may become all things to them, Envy may hate, but juftice can't condemn. " Into our places, ftates, and beds they creep:"
They've fenfe to get, what we want fenfe to keep.

Once, be the hour accurs'd, accurs'd the place, I ventur'd to blafpheme the chofen race.
Into thofe traps, which men, call'd Patriots, laid, By feecious arts unwarily betray'd,
Madly I leagu'd againft that facred earth,
Vile parricide! which gave a parent birth. But fhall I meanly error's path purfue,
When heav'nly $\mathrm{T}_{\mathrm{ruth}}$ prefents her friendly clac, Once plung'd in ill, fhall I go farther in ? To make the oath, was rafh; to keep it, fin.

yo8 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.

Backward I tread the paths I trod before, And calm reflection hates what paffion fivore. Converted, (bleffed are the fouls which know Thofe pleafures which from true converfion flow, Whether to reafon, who now rules my breaft, Or to pure faith, like Lyttleton and West) Pait crimes to expiate, be my prefent aim To raife new trophies to the Scotitish name, To make (what can the proudeft Mufe do more?) E'en faction's fons her brighter worth adore, To make her glories, ftamp'd with honeft rhimes, In fulleft tide roll down to lateft times.
" Prefumptuous wretch! and thall a Muee like thine "An Englifs Mufe, the meaneft of the nine, " Attempt a theme like this? Can her weak Atrain
" Expect indulgence from the mighty Thane?
" Should he from toils of government retire,
" And for a moment fan the poet's fire,
"Should he, of fciences the moral friend,
" Each curious, each important fearch fufpend,
" Leave unaffited Hill of herbs to tell,
" And all the wonders of a Cockle-fbell,

The PROPHECY of FAMINE. $\quad 109$
" Having the Lord's good grace before his eyes,
" Would not the Home ftep forth, and gain the prize?
" Or if this wreath of honour might adorn
" The humble brows of one in England born,
" Prefumptuous ftill thy daring muft appear;
" Vain all thy tow'ring hopes, whilft I am here."

Thus fpake a form, by filken fmile, and tone Dull and unvaried, for the Laureat known, Folly's chief friend, Decorum's eldeft fon, In ev'ry party found, and yet of none. This airy fubftance, this fubfantial 乃bade, Abahh'd I heard, and with refpect obey'd.

From themes too lofty for a bard fo mean, Difcretion beckons to an humbler fcene, The reftlefs fever of ambition laid, Calm I retire, and feek the fylvan fhade. Now be the Mufe difrob'd of all her pride, Be all the glare of verfe by Truth fupplied, And if plain nature pours a fimple ftrain, Which Bute may praife, and Ossian not difdain, Ossian, fublimeft, fimpleft Bard of all, Whom Englifb Infidels, Macpherson call,
ro The PROPHECY of FAMINE.
Then round my head fhall honour's enfigns wave,
And penfions mark me for a willing flave.

Two Boys, whofe birth beyond all queftion fprings From great and glorious, tho' forgotten, kings, Shepherds of Scottifl lineage, born and bred On the fame bleak and barren mountain's head, By niggard nature doom'd on the fame rocks To fpin out life, and ftarve themfelves and flocks, Freh as the morning, which, enrob'd in mift, The mountain top with ufual dullnefs kifs'd, Jockey and Sawney to their labours rofe; Soon clad I ween, where nature needs no cloaths, Where, from their youth enur'd to winter-fkies, Drefs and her vain refinements they defpife.

Jockey, whofe manly high-bon'd cheeks to crown With freckles fpotted flam'd the golden down, With mikle art, could on the bagpipes play, E'cn from the rifing to the fetting day;

The PROPHECY of FAMINE. ind

Sawney as long without remorfe could bawl
Home's madrigals, and ditties from Fingal.
Oft at his Atrains, all natural tho' rude,
The Higbland Lafs forgot her want of food, And, whilft the foratch'd her lover into reft, Sunk pleas'd, tho' hungry, on her Sawney's breaft,

Far as the eye could reach, no tree was feen, Earth, clad in ruffet, fcorn'd the lively green. The plague of Locufts they fecure defy,
For in three hours a grafhopper mult die.
Nc living thing, whate'er its food, fealts there,
But the Cameleon, who can feaft on air.
No birds, except as birds of paffage flew,
No bee was known to hum, no dove to coo.
No ftreams as amber fmcoth, as amber clear, Were feen to glide, or heard to warble here. Rebellion's fpring, which thro' the country ran, Furnifh'd, with bitter draughts, the fteady clan. No flow'rs embalm'd the air, but one white rofe, Which, on the tenth of June, by inftinct blows, By inftinct blows at morn, and, when the fhades Of drizly eve prevail, by inftinct fades.

212 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.

One, and but one poor folitary cave, Too fparing of her favours, nature gave; That one alone (hard tax on Scottifl pride!) Shelter at once for man and beaft fupplied. Their flares witbout entangling briers fpread, And thiftles, arm'd againft th'invader's head, Stood in clofe ranks all entrance to oppofe, Thinles now held more precious than the rofe. All creatures which, on nature`s earlieft plan, Were form'd to loath, and to be loath'd by man, Which ow'd their birth to naftinefs and fpite, Deadly to touch, and hateful to the fight, Creatures which, when admitted in the ark, Their Saviour fhun'd, and rankled in the dark, Found place suitbin, marking her noifome road With poifon's trail, bere crawl'd the bloated Toad; There webs were fpread of more than common fize, And half-ftarv'd fpiders prey'd on half-ftarv'd flies; In queft of food, Efts ftrove in vain to crawl; Slugs, pinch'd with hunger, fmear'd the flimy wall; The cave around with hiffing ferpents rung; On the damp roof unhealthy vapour hung; And Famine, by ber cildren always known, As proud as poor, bere fix'd her native throne.

The PROPHECY of FAMINE.

Here, for the fullen fky was overcaft,
And fummer hrunk bencath a wint'ry blaft,
A native blaft, which, arm'd with hail and rain,
Beat unrelenting on the naked fwain,
The Boys for fhelter made ; behind, the fheep,
Of which thofe fhepherds ev'ry day take keep,
Sickly crept on, and with complainings rude,
On nature feem'd to call, and bleat for food.
J O CKEY.

Sith to this cave, by tempeft, we're confin'd, And within ken our flocks, under the wind, Safe from the pelting of this perilous ftorm, Are laid emong yon thiftles, dry and warm, What, Sawney, if by fhepherd's art we try To mock the rigour of this cruel fky? What if we tune fome merry roundelay? Well doft thou fing, nor ill doth Jockey play.
S A W N E Y.

Ah, Jockey, ill advifeft thou, I wis, To think of fongs at fuch a time as this.

114 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.
Sooner thall herbage crown thefe barren rocks, Sooner thall fleeces cloath thefe ragged flocks, Sooner fhall want feize fhepherds of the fouth, And we forget to live from hand to mouth, Than Sawney, out of feafon, fhall impart The fongs of gladnefs with an aching heart.
J O C K E Y.

Still have I known thee for a filly fwain ; Of things paft help, what boots it to complain? Nothing but mirth can conquer fortune's fite; No fky is heavy, if the heart be light: Paticnice is forrow's falve; what can't be cur'd, So Donald right areeds, mult be endur'd.
S A W N E Y.

Full filly fwain, $I$ wot, is Jockey now; How did'ft thou bear thy Maggy's flalhood? how, When with a forcign loon fhe ftole away, Did'it thou forfwear thy pipe and fhepherd's lay? Where was thy boafted wifdom then, when I Applied thofe proverbs, which you now apply?
J O C K E Y.

O fhe was bonny! all the Highlands round Was there a rival to my $\mathrm{M}_{\mathrm{AGGy}}$ found!
More precious (tho' that precious is to all)
Than the rare med'cine, which we Brimftone call,
Or that choice plant, fo grateful to the nofe,
Which, in I know not what far country, grows,
Was Maggy unto me; dear do I rue,
A lafs fo fair fhould ever prove untrue.
S A W N E Y.

Whether with pipe or fong to charm the ear, 'Thro' all the land did Jamie find a peer?
Curs'd be that year by ev'ry honeft Scot,
And in the fhepherd's calendar forgot,
That fatal year, when Jamie, haplefs fwain,
In evil hour forfook the peaceful plain.
Jamie, when our young Laird difcreetly fled, Was feiz'd and hang'd till he was dead, dead, dead.

IIб The PROPHECY of FAMINE.

J O C K E Y.

Full forely may we ail lament that day :
For all were lofers in the deadly fray.
Five brothers had I, on the Scottifh plains,
Well doft thou know were none more hopeful fwains;
Five brothers there I lof, in manhood's pride, Two in the field, and three on gibbets died; Ab! filly fwains, to follow war's alarms, Ab! what hath Mepherd's life to do with arms!
S A W N E Y.

Mention it not - there faw I ftrangers clad In all the honours of our ravifh'd Plaid, Saw the Ferrara too, our nation's pride, Unwilling grace the aukward victor's fide. There fell our choiceft youth, and from that day Mote never Sawney tune the merry lay; Blefs'd thofe which fell! curs'd thofe which ftill furvive, To mourn fifteen renew'd in forty-five.

The PROPHECY of FAMINi. II7

Thus plain'd the Boys, when, from her throne of turf, With boils embofs'd, and overgrown with fcurf, Vile humours, which, in life's corrupted well, Mix'd at the birth, not abftinence could quell, Pale Famine rear'd the head; her eager eyes, Where hunger e'en to madnefs feem'd to rife, Speaking aloud her throes and pangs of heart, Strain'd to get loofe, and from their orbs to ftart;
Her hollow cheeks were each a deep-funk cell, Where wretchednefs and horror lov'd to dwell; With double rows of ufelefs teeth fupplied, Her mouth, from ear to ear, extended wide, Which, when for want of food her entrails pin'd, She op'd, and curfing fwallow'd noughe but wind; All fhrivell'd was her fkin; and here and there, Making their way by force, her bones lay bare : Such filthy fight to hide from human view, O'er her foul limbs a tatter'd Plaid the threw.

Ceafe, cried the Goddefs, ceafe, defpairing fwains, And from a parent hear what Jove ordains!

Pent in this barren corner of the ifle, Where partial fortune never deign'd to fmile;

$\pi 8$ The PROPHECY of FAMINE.

Like nature's baftards, reaping for our fhare
What was rejected by the lawful heir;
Unknown amongt the nations of the earth,
Or only known to raife contempt and mirth ;
Long free, becaufe the race of Roman braves Thought it not worth their while to make us flaves; Then into bondage by that nation brought,
Whofe ruin we for ages vainly fought,
Whom fill with unflack'd hate we view, and fill, The pow'r of mifchief loft, retain the will;
Confider'd as the refufe of mankind,
A mafs till the laft moment left behind,
Which frugal nature doubted, as it lay,
Whether to famp with life, or throw away;
Which, form'd in hafte, was planted in this nook,
But never enter'd in Creation's book;
Branded as traitors, who for love of gold,
Would fell their God, as once their King they fold;
Long have we borne this mighty weight of ill,
Thefe vile injurious taunts, and bear them fill,
But times of happier note are now at hand,
And the full promife of a better land:
There, like the Sons of Ifrael, having trod,
For the fix'd term of years ordain'd by God,

The PROPHECY of FAMINE.

A barren defart, we fhall feize rich plains,
Where milk with honey flows, and plenty reigns.
With fome ferw natives join'd, fome pliant few, Who worfhip int'reft, and our track purfue, There fhall we, tho' the wretched people grieve, Ravage at large, nor afk the owners leave.

For us, the earth fhall bring forth her increafe; For us, the flocks fhall wear a golden fleece; Fat Beeves fhall yield us dainties not our own, And the grape bleed a nectar yet unknown; For our advantage fhall their harvefts grow, And $S \cot$ finen reap, what they difdain'd to fow; For us, the fun fhall climb the eaftern hill; For us, the rain fhall fall, the dew diftil; When to our wifhes Nature cannot rife,
$A_{r t}$ fhall be tafk'd to grant us frefh fupplies. His brawny arm hall drudging Labour ftrain, And for our pleafure fuffer daily pain; Trade fhall for us exert her utmoft pow'rs, Her's, all the toil, and all the profit, our's; For us, the Oak hall from his native fleep Defcend, and fearlefs travel thro' the deep;

A20 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.
The fail of Commerce for our ufe unfurl'd, Shall waft the treafures of each diftant world ;
For us, fublimer heights fhall fcience reach, For us, their Statefmen plot, their Churchmen preach; Their nobleft limbs of counfel we'll disjoint, And, mocking, new ones of our own appoint; Devouring $W_{A R}$, imprifon'd in the north, Shall, at our call, in horrid pomp break forth, And when, his chariot wheels with thunder hung, Fcli Difcord braying with her brazen tongue, Death in the van, with Anger, Hate, and Fear, And Defolation flalking in the rear, Revenge, by Juftice guided, in his train, He drives impetuous o'er the trembling plain, Shall, at our bidding, quit his lawful prey, And to meek, gentle, gen'rous Peace give way.

Think not, my fons, that this fo blefs'd eftate Stands at a difance on the roll of fate; Already bis with hopes of fucure fway, E゙, from this care I cent my derin'd prey. 'I lamk not, that this dominion o'er a race, Whoie former deeds fran time's laft annals grace,

The PROPHECY of FAMINE.

In the rough face of peril muft be fought, And with the lives of thoufands dearly bought; No - fool'd by cunning, by that happy art Which laughs to fcorn the blund'ring hero's heart, Into the fnare fhall our kind neighbours fall With open eyes, and fondly give us all.

When Rome, to prop her finking empire, bore Their choiceft levies to a foreign fhore, What if we feiz'd, like a deftroying flood, Their widow'd plains, and fill'd the realm with blood,
Gave an unbounded loofe to manly rage, And, fcorning mercy, fpar'd nor fex nor age; When, for our intereft too mighty grown, Monarchs of warlike bent poffefs'd the throne, What if we ftrove divifions to foment, And fpread the flames of civil difcontent, Anfted thore who 'gaint their king made head, And gave the traitors refuge when they fled; When reftlefs Glory bad her fons advance, And pitch'd her frandard in the fields of France, What if, difdaining oaths, an empty found, By which our nation never fhall be bound,

122 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.

Bravely we taught unmuzzled war to roam
Thro' the weak land, and brought cheap laurels home;
When the bold traitors leagu'd for the defence
Of Law, Religion, Liberty, and Senfe,
When they againft their lawful Monarch rofe,
And dar'd the Lord's Anointed to oppofe,
What if we fill rever'd the banifh'd race, And Atrove the Royal Vagrants to replace, With fierce rebellions fhook th' unfettled ftate, And greatly dar'd, tho' crofs'd by partial fate ; Thefe facts, which might, where wifdom held the fway, Awake the very ftones to bar our way, There fhall be nothing, nor one trace remain In the dull region of an Englifh brain.
Blefs'd with that Faith, which mountains can remove, Firft they fhall Dupes, next Saints, laft Martyrs prove,

Already is this game of fate begun Under the fanction of my Darling Son, That Son, of nature royal as his name, Is deftin'd to redeem our race from fhame, His boundlefs pow'r, beyond example great, Shall make the rough way fmooth, the crooked Araight,

The PROPHECY of FAMINE.

Shall for our eafe the raging floods reftrain, And fink the mountain level to the plain. Discord, whom in a cavern under ground With maffy fetters their late Patriot bound, Where her own flefh the furious Hag might tear, And vent her curfes to the vacant air, Where, that fhe never might be heard of more, He planted Loyalty to guard the door, For better purpofe hall Our Chief releafe, Difguife her for a time, and call her Peace.

Lur'd by that name, fine engine of deceit, Shall the weak English help themfelves to cheat, To gain our love, with honours fhall they grace The old adherents of the Stuart race, Who pointed out, no matter by what name, Tories or Jacobites, are fill the fame; To footh our rage, the temporifing brood Shall break the ties of truth and gratitude, Againtt their Saviour venom'd falfhoods frame, And brand with calumny their William's name; ' Co win our grace, (rare argument of wit) To our untainted faith fhall they commit

124 The PROPHECY of FAMINE.

(Our faith which, in extremelt perils tried,
Difdain'd, and ftill difdains, to change her fide,
That facred Majeity they all approve, Who moft enjoys, and beft deferves their Love.

MONGST the fons of men how few are known Who dare be juft to merit not their own!
Superior virtue and fuperior fenfe
To knaves and fools will always give offence;
Nay, men of real worth can fcarcely bear,
So nice is Jealoufy, a rival there.

128 E P I S T L E T O

Be wicked as thou wilt, do all that's bafe, Proclaim thy felf the monfter of thy race; Let Vice and Folly thy black Soul divide, Be proud with meannefs, and be mean with pride; Deaf to the voice of Faith and Honour, fall From fide to fide, yet be of none at all; Spurn all thofe charities, thofe facred ties, Which Nature in her bounty, good as wife, 'To work our fafety, and enfure her plan, Contriv'd to bind, and rivet man to man ; Lift againit Virtue Pow'r's oppreflive rod, Betray thy Country, and deny thy God; And, in one gen'ral comprehenfive line, To group, which volumes fcarcely could define, Whate'er of Sin and Dulnefs can be faid, Join to a F-_'s heart a D-_'s head, Yet may'ft thou pafs unnotic'd in the throng, And, free from Envy, fafely fneak along. The rigid Saint, by whom no mercy's Ahewn To Saints whofe lives are better than his own, Shall fpare thy crimes; and $\mathrm{W}_{\text {IT }}$, who never once Eorgave a Brother, fhall forgive a Dunce.

But hould thy foul, form'd in fome lucklefs hour,
Vile Int'reft fcorn, nor madly grafp at Pow'r ;
Should Love of Fame, in ev'ry noble mind
A brave difeafe, with love of Virtue join'd, Spur thee to deeds of pith, where Courage, tried
In Reafon's court, is amply juftified;
Or fond of knowledge, and averfe to frife, Should'ft Thou prefer the calmer walk of life; Should'ft Thou, by pale and fickly Study led, Purfue coy Science to the Fountain head; Virtue thy guide, and Public Good thy end, Should ev'ry thought to our improvement tend, To curb the paffions, to enlarge the mind, Purge the fick weal, and humanize mankind:
Rage in her eye, and Malice in her breaft, Redoubled Horror grinning on her creft, Fiercer each fnake, and fharper ev'ry dart, Quick from her cell fhall madd'ning Envy fart. Then fhalt Thou find, but find alas! too late, How vain is worth! how fhort is Glory's date! Then Shalt Thou find, whilft Friends with Foes confpire To give more proof than Virtue would defire, Thy danger chiefly lies in acting well; No crime's fo great as daring to excel.

130 E P I S T L E T O
Whilft Satire thus, difdaining mean controur, Urg'd the free dictates of an honeft foul, Candour, who, with the charity of Paul, Still thinks the beft, whene'er fhe thinks at all, With the fiveet milk of human kindnefs blefs'd, The furious ardour of my zeal reprefs'd.

Can't Thou, with more than ufual warmth, he cry'd, Thy malice to indulge, and feed thy pride, Can't Thou, fevere by Nature as Thou art, With all that wond'rous rancour in thy heart, Delight to torture Truth ten thoufand ways, To fpin detraction forth from themes of praife, To make Vice fit, for purpofes of ftrife, And draw the Hag much larger than the life, To make the good feem bad, the bad feem worfe, And reprefent cur Nature as our curfe?

Doth not humanity condemn that zeal Which tends to aggravate and not to heal? Doth not difcretion warn thee of difgrace, And danger grinning fare thee in the face Loud as the Drum, which fpreading terror round Erom emptinefs, acquires the pow'r of found?

WILLIAM HOGARTH.

Doth not the voice of Norton ftrike thy car,
And the pale Mansfield chill thy foul with fear?
Doft Thou, fond man, believe thyfelf fecure,
Becaufe Thou'rt honeft, and becaufe Thou'rt poor?
Do'it Thou on Law and Liberty depend?
Turn, turn thy eyes, and view thy injur'd friend.
Art Thou beyond the ruffian gripe of Pow'r,
When Wilees, prejudg'd, is fentenc'd to the Tow'r?
Do'ft Thou by Privilege exemption claim,
When Privilege is little more than name?
Or to Prerogative (that glorious ground
On which State-fcoundrels oft have fafety found)
Doft Thou pretend, and there a fanction find, Unpunifh'd, thus to Libel human kind?

When Poverty, the Poet's contant crime, Compell'd thee, all unfit, to trade in rime, Had not Romantic notions turn'd thy head, Had'f Thou not valued Honour more than bread, Had Int'reft, pliant Int'reft, been thy guide, And had not Prudence been debauch'd by Pride, In flatt'ry's ftream Thou would'f have dipp'd thy pen, Applied to great, and not to honeft men,
$\begin{array}{llllllllll}132 & E & P & I & S & T & L & E & T & O\end{array}$
Nor fhould Conviction have feduc'd thy heart To take the weaker tho' the better part.

What but rank Folly, for thy curfe decreed, Could into Satire's barren path miflead, When, open to thy view, before thee lay Soul-foothing Panegyric's flow'ry way? There might the mufe have faunter'd at her eafe, And, pleafing others, learn'd herfelf to pleafe, Lords fhould have liften'd to the fugar'd treat, And Ladies, fimp'ring, own'd it vaftly fweet; Rogues, in thy prudent verfe with virtue grac'd, Fools, mark'd by thee as prodigies of Tafte, Mult have forbid, pouring preferments down, Such Wit, fuch Truth as thine to quit the gown. Thy facred Brethren too (for they no lefs Than Laymen, bring their off'rings to Succefs) Had hail'd Thee good if great, and paid the vow Sincere as that they pay to God, whillt Thou In Lawn hadft whifper'd to a fleeping croud, As dull as R——, and half as proud.

Peace, Candour - wifely had'ft thou faid, and well, Could Int'reft in this breat one moment dweli,

Could

Could fhe, with profpect of fuccefs, oppofe
The firm refolves which from Conviction rofe.
I cannot truckle to a Fool of State,
Nor take a favour from the man I hate.
Free leave have others by fuch means to fhine;
I foorn their practice, they may laugh at mine.

But in this charge, forgetful of thyfelf,
Thou haft affum'd the maxims of that Elf,
Whom God in wrath for man's difhonour fram'd,
Cunning in Heav'n, amongft us Prudence nam'd,
That fervile Prudence, which I leave to thofe
Who dare not be my Friends, can't be my Foes.

Had I, with cruel and oppreffive rimes, Purfued, and turn'd misfortunes into crimes;
Had I, when Virtue gafping lay and low, Join'd tyrant Vice, and added woe to woe; Had made Modefty in blufhes fpeak, And drawn the tear down Beauty's facred cheek; Had I (damn'd then) in thought debas'd my lays, To wound that Sex, which Honour bids me praife;
Had I, from vengeance by bafe views betray'd, In endlefs night funk injur'd Ayliff's fhade;

134 E P I S T L E T O

Had I (which Satirifts of mighty name,
Renown'd in rime, rever'd for moral fame,
Have done before, whom Juftice fhall purfue In future verfe) brought forth to public view A noble Friend, and made his foibles known, Becaufe his worth was greater than my own; Had I fpar'd thofe (fo Prudence had decreed) Whom, God fo help me at my greateft need, I ne'er will fpare, thofe vipers to their King, Who fmooth their looks, and flatter whilft they fting,
Or had I not taught patriot zeal to boaft Of Thofe, who flatter leaft, but love him moft; Had I thus finn'd, my ftubborn foul fhould bend At Candour's voice, and take, as from a friend, The deep rebuke; Myfelf hould be the firft To hate myfelf, and ftamp my Mufe accurs'd.

But hall my arm-forbid it manly Pride, Forbid it Reafon, warring on my fide For vengeance lifted high, the ftroke forbear, And hang fufpended in the defart air, Or to my trembling fide unnerv'd fink down, Palfied, forfooth, by Candour's half-made frown?

When Juftice bids me on, fhall I delay
Becaufe infipid Candour bars my way?
When he, of all alike the puling friend, Would difappoint my Satire's nobleft end, When he to villains would a fanction give, And fhelter thofe who are not fit to live, When he would fcreen the guilty from a blufh, And bids me fpare whom Reafon bids me crufh, All leagues with Candour proudly I refign; She cannot be for Honour's turn, nor mine.

Yet come, cold monitor, half foe, half friend, Whom Vice can't fear, whom Virtue can't commend, Come Candour, by thy dull indiff'rence known, Thou equal-blooded judge, Thou lukewarm drone, Who, fafhion'd without feelings, doft expect We call that Virtue, which we know Defect, Come, and obferve the Nature of our crimes, The grofs and rank complexion of the times, Obferve it well, and then review my plan; Praife if you will, or cenfure if you can.

Whilft Vice prefumptuous lords it as in fport, And Piety is only known at Court;

130 E Pl S T L E T O
Whilf wretched Liberty expiring lies
Bencath the fatal burthen of Excise;
Whillt nobles act, without one touch of chame, What men of humble rank would bluh to name; Whilft Honour's plac'd in higheft point of view, Worfhipp'd by thofe, who Juftice never knew; Whilf Bubbles of Diftinction wafte in play The hours of reft, and blunder thro' the day, With dice and cards opprobrious vigils keep, Then turn to ruin empires in their fleep;
Whilft Fathers, by relentlefs paffion led,
Doom worthy injur'd fons to beg their bread, Merely with ill-got, ill-fav'd wealth to grace An alien, abject, poor, proud, upftart race; Whillt Martin flatters only to betray, And $W_{\text {ebb }}$ gives up his dirty foul for pay; Whiltt titles ferve to hufh a villain's fears; Whill Peers are Agents made, and Agents Peers, Whiilt bafe betrayers are themfelves betray'd, And makers ruin'd by the thing they made; Whilft C-, falfe to God and man, for gold, Like the old traitor who a Saviour fold, To Shame his Mafter, Friend, and Father gives; Whilf Bute remains in pow'r, whilft Holland lives;

Can Satire want a fubject, where Difdain, By Virtue fir'd, may point her harpeft ftrain, Where cloath'd with thunder, Truth may roll along, And $\mathrm{C}_{\text {andour }}$ juftify the rage of fong?

Such Things! fuch Men before Thee! fuch an Age! Where Rancour, great as thine, may glut her rage,
And ficken e'en to furfeit, where the pride Of Satire, pouring down in fulleft tide, May fpread wide vengeance round, yet all the while Juftice behold the ruin with a fmile; Whilft I, thy foe mifdeem'd, cannot condemn, Nor difapprove that rage I wifh to ftem, Wilt thou, degen'rate and corrupted, chufe To foil the credit of thy haughty Mufe ? With Fallacy, moft infamous, to ftain Her Truth, and render all her anger vain? When I beheld Thee incorrect, but bold, A various comment on the Stage unfold; When Play'rs on Play'rs before thy fatire fell, And poor Reviews confpir'd thy wrath to fwell; When States and Statefmen next became thy care, And only kings were fafe if thou waft there;

I3 8 E P I S T L E T O
Thy ev'ry Word I weigh'd in Judgment's fcale, And in thy ev'ry word found Truth prevail. Why do'f Thou now to Fallhood meanly fly? Not even Candour can forgive a lye.

Bad as Men are, why fhould thy frantic rimes Traffick in Slander, and invent new crimes? Crimes, which exifting only in thy mind, Weak Spleen brings forth to blacken all Mankind.
By pleafing hopes we lure the human heart To practife Virtue, and improve in art; To thwart thefe ends (which, proud of honeft Fame, A noble Mufe would cherifh and inflame) Thy Drudge contrives, and in our full career Sicklies, our hopes with the pale hue of Fear; Tells us that all our labours are in vain ; That what we feek, we never can obtain; That, dead to Virtue, loft to Nature's plan,
Envy poffeffes the whole race of man; That Worth is criminal, and Danger lies, Danger extreme, in being good and wife.
'Tis a rank falfhood; fearch the world around, There cannot be fo vile a monter found,

WILLIAM HOGARTH.

Not one fo vile, on whom fufpicions fall Of that grofs guilt, which you impute to all. Approv'd by thofe who difobey her laws, Virtue from Vice itfelf extorts applaufe.
Her very foes bear witnefs to her ftate; They will not love her, but they cannot hate.
Hate Virtue for herfelf, with fpite purfue Merit for Merit's fake! might this be true,
I would renounce my Nature with difdain, And with the beafts that perifh graze the plain. Might this be true, had we fo far fill'd up The meafure of our crimes, and from the cup Of guilt fo deeply drank, as not to find, Thirfting for fin, one drop, one dreg behind, Quick ruin muft involve this flaming ball, And Providence in Juftice cruh us all. None but the damn'd, and amongft them the worft, Thofe who for double guilt are doubly curs'd,
Can be fo loft ; nor can the worft of all
At once into fuch deep damnation fall;
By painful flow degrees they reach this crime,
Which e'en in Hell mult be a work of time,
$\begin{array}{llllllllll}140 & \mathrm{E} & \mathrm{P} & \mathrm{I} & \mathrm{S} & \mathrm{T} & \mathrm{L} & \mathrm{E} & \mathrm{T} & \mathrm{O}\end{array}$
Ceafe then thy guilty rage, thou wayward fon,
With the foul gall of difcontent o'er-run,
Lift to my voice-be honett, if you can,
Nor flander Nature in her fav'rite man.
But if thy fpirit, refolute in ill,
Once having err'd, perfifts in error ftill,
Go on at large, no longer worth my care, And freely vent thofe blafphemies in air, Which I would famp as falfe, tho' on the tongue Of Angeis the injurious flander hung.

Dup'd by thy vanity (that cunning elf Who fnares the Coxcomb to deceive himfelf) Or blinded by that rage, did'ft Thou believe 'That We too, coolly, would ourfelves deceive? That We, as fterling falfhood would admit, Becaufe 'twas feafon'd with fome little wit? When Fiction rifes pleafing to the eye, Men will believe, becaufe they love the lye; But Truth herfelf, if clouded with a frown, Munt have fome folemn proof to pafs her down. Hart Thou, maintaining that which mut difgrace And bring into contempt the human race,

Haft Thou, or can'f Thou, in Truth's facred court, To fave thy credit, and thy caule fupport, Produce one proof, make out one real ground
On which fo great, fo grofs a charge to found?
Nay, doft Thou know one man (let that appear,
From wilful falfhood I'll proclaim thee clear)
One man fo loft, to Nature fo untrue,
From whom this gen'ral charge thy rafhnefs drew?
On this foundation fhalt thou ftand or fall-
Prove that in One, which you have charg'd on All.
Reafon determines, and it muft be done;
'Mongft men, or paft, or prefent, name me One.

Hogarth-I take thee, Candour, at thy word, Accept thy proffer'd terms, and will be heard; 'Thee have I heard with virulence declaim, Nothing retain'd of Candour but the name; By Thee have I been charg'd in angry Mrains With that mean falfhood which my foul difdainsHogarth fand forth - Nay hang not thus aloof Now, Candour, now Thou fhall receive fuch proof, Such damning proof, that henceforth Thou halt fear To tax my wrath, and own my conduct clear -

142 E P I S T L E T O
Hogarth fand forth - I dare thee to be tried In that great Court, where Confcience mult prefide ; At that moft folemn bar hold up thy hand; Think before whom, on what account you fand Speak, but confider well - from firft to laft Review thy life, weigh ev'ry action paft Nay, you hall have no reafon to complain Take longer time, and view them o'er again Cant 'Thou remember from thy earlieft youth, And as thy God mutt judge Thee, fpeak the truth, A fingle inftance where, Self laid afide, And Juftice taking place of fear and pride, Thou with an equal eye did'f Genius view, And give to Merit what was Merit's due? Genius and Merit are a fure offence, And thy Soul fickens at the name of Senfe. Is any one fo foolifh to fucceed, On Enve's altar he is doom'd to bleed? Hogarth, a guilty pleafure in his eyes, The place of Executioner fupplies. See how he glotes, enjoys the facred feaft, And proves himfelf by cruelty a prief.

WILLIAM HOGARTH. Whilf the weak Artif, to thy whims a llave,

 Would bury all thofe pow'rs which Nature gave, Would fuffer blank concealment to obfcure Thofe rays, thy Jealoufy could not endure; To feed thy vanity would ruft unknown, And to fecure thy credit blaft his own, In Hogarth he was fure to find a friend; He could not fear, and therefore might commend. But when his Spirit, rous'd by honeft Shame, Shook off that Lethargy, and foar'd to Fame, When, with the pride of Man, refolv'd and ftrong, He fcorn'd thofe fears which did his Honour wrong, And, on himfelf determin'd to rely,Brought forth his labours to the public cye, No Friend in Thee, could fuch a Rebel know; He had defert, and Hogarth was his foe.

Souls of a tim'rous caft, of petty name In Envy's court, not yet quite dead to thame, May fome Remorfe, fome qualms of Confcience feel, And fuffer Honour to abate their Zeal, But the Man, truly and compleatly great,
Allows no rule of action but his hate;

144 E P I S T L E T O

Thro' ev'ry bar he bravely breaks his way, Paftion his Principle, and Parts his prey. Mediums in Vice and Virtue fpeak a mind Within the pale of Temperance confin'd; The daring Spirit fcorns her narrow fchemes, And, good or bad, is always in extremes.

Man's practice duly weigh'd, thro' ev'ry age On the fame plan hath Envy form'd her rage. 'Gainft thofe whom Fortune hath our rivals made In way of Science, and in way of Trade, Stung with mean Jealoufy fhe arms her fpite, Firf works, then views their ruin with delight. Our Hogarth here a grand improver fhines, And nobly on the gen'ral plan refines; He like himfelf, o'erleaps the fervile bound; Worth is his mark, wherever Worth is found. Should Painters only his vaft wrath fuffice? Genius in ev'ry walk is Lawful Prize. 'Tis a grofs infult to his o'ergrown ftate; His love to merit is to feel his hate.

When Whkes, our Countryman, our common fricnd, Arole, his King, his Country to defend,

When tools of pow'r he bar'd to public view, And from their holes the fneaking cowards drew, When Rancour found it far beyond her reach To foil his honour, and his truth impeach, What could induce Thee, at a time and place, Where manly Foes had bluh'd to fhew their face, To make that effort, which muft damn thy name, And fink Thee deep, deep in thy grave with fhame? Did Virtue move Thee? no, 'twas Pride, rank Pride, And if Thou hadft not done it, Thou had'ft dy'd. Malice (who, difappointed of her end, Whether to work the bane of Foe or Friend, Preys on herfelf, and driven to the Stake, Gives Virtue that revenge fhe fcorns to take) Had kill'd Thee, tott'ring on life's utmoft verge, Had Wilkes and Liberty efcap'd thy fcourge.

When that geat Charter, which our Fathers bought With their beft blood, was into queftion brought; When, big with ruin, o'er each Englinh head Vile Slav'ry hung fufpended by a thread; When Liberty, all trembling and aghaft, Fear'd for the future, knowing what was paft;

146 E P I S T L E T O
When ev'ry breaft was chill'd with deep defpair, Till Reafon pointed out that Pratt was there; Lurking, moft Ruffian-like, behind a fcreen, So plac'd all things to fee, himfelf unfeen, Virtue, with due contempt, faw Hogarth ftand, The murd'rous pencil in his palfied hand. What was the caufe of Liberty to him, Or what was Honour? let them fink or fwim, So he may gratify, without controul, The mean refentments of his felfifh foul. Let Freedom perifh, if, to Freedom true, In the fame ruin Wilkes may perih too.

With all the fymptoms of affur'd decay, With age and ficknefs pinch'd, and worn away, Pale quiv'ring lips, lank cheeks, and fault'ring tongue, The Spirits out of tune, the Nerves unftrung, Thy Body Arivell'd up, thy dim eyes funk Within their fockets deep, thy weak hams fhrunk The body's weight unable to fuftain, The fream of life fcarce trembling thro' the vein, More than half-kill'd by honeft truths, which fell, 'Thro' thy own fault, from men who wifh'd thee well,

Can'ft thou, e'en thus, thy thoughts to vengeance give, And, dead to all things elfe, to Malice live ? Hence, Dotard, to thy clofet, fhut thee in, By deep repentance wafh away thy fin,

Within the manfion of his gloomy breaft,
A manfion fuited well to fuch a gueft;
Immortal, unimpair'd the rears her head,
And damns alike the living and the dead.

Oft have I known Thee, Hogarth, weak and vain, Thyfelf the idol of thy aukward ftrain, Thro' the dull meafure of a fummer's day, In phrafe moft vile, prate long long hours away, Whilft Friends with Friends, all gaping fit, and gaze ${ }_{2}$ To hear a Hogarth babble Hogartís praife.

And brought the boafted Mafer-piece to view.
Spare thy remarks - fay not a fingle word -
The Picture feen, why is the Painter heard?
Call not up Shame and Anger in our checks;
Without a Comment Sigismunda feeaks.

Poor Sigismunda! what a Fate is thine!
Dryden, the great High-Prie!t of all the Nine,
Reviv'd thy name, gave what a Mufe could give, And in his Numbers bad thy Mem'ry live;
Gave thee thofe foft fenfations, which might move
And warm the coldeft Anchorite to Love;
Gave thee that Virtue, which could curb defire, Refine and Confecrate Love's headftrong fire;

${ }_{150}$ E P I S T L E T O

Gave thee thofe griefs, which made the Stoic feel, And call'd compafion forth from hearts of fteel; Gave thee that firmncfs, which our Sex may fhame, And make Man bow to Woman's jufter claim, So that our tears, which from Compaffion flow, Seem to debafe thy dignity of woe.
But O, how much unlike! how fall'n! how chang'd! How much from Nature, and herfelf eftrang'd! How totally depriv'd of ali the pow'rs To fhew her feelings, and awaken ours, Doth Sigismunda now devoted fand, The helplefs victim of a Dauber's hand!

But why, my Hogarth, fuch a progrefs made, So rare a Pattern for the Sign-Poft trade, In the full force, and whirlwind of thy pride, Why was Heroic Painting laid afide?
Why is It not refum'd? thy Friends at Court, Men all in place and pow'r, crave thy fupport; Be greatful then for once, and, thro' the field Of Politics, thy Efic Pencil wield, Maintain the caufe, which they, good lack! avow, And would maintain too, but they know not how.

Thro' ev'ry Pannel let thy Virtue tell
How Bute prevail'd, How Pitt and Temple fell!
How England's fons (whom They confpir'd to blefs

O! that I here could that rare Virtue mean, Which fcorns the rule of Envy, Pride and Spleen, Which fprings not from the labour'd Works of Axt, But hath its rife from Nature in the heart, Which in itfelf with happinefs is crown'd, And fureads with joy the bleffing all around! But Truth forbids, and in thefe fimple lays, Contented with a diff'rent kind of Praife, Muft Hogarth ftand ; that Praife which Genius gives, In Which to lateft time the Artifl lives, But not the Man; which, rightly underftood, May make Us great, but cannot make us good. That Praife be Hogarth's; freely let him wear The Wreath which Genius wove, and planted there. Foe as I am, fhould Envy tear it down, Myfelf would labour to replace the Crown.

In walks of Humour, in that calt of Style, Which, probing to the quick, yet makes us fmile; In Comedy, his nat'ral road to fame, Nor let me call it by a meaner name,

With anticnt Bards, an Invocation
Was a true act of Adoration,
Of Worhip an effential part,
And not a formal piece of Art,
Of puultry reading a Parade,
A dull folemnity in trade,
A pious Fever, taught to burn

Paffions to raife flue could not feel, Wounds to inflict fine would noot heal.
A God (his name is no great matter, Perphaps a Jove, perhaps a Satyr)
Raging with Luff, a Godlike flame,
By chance, as ufual, thither came:
With gloting eyes the Fair one view'd,
Defir'd her firt, and then purfu'd;
Sbe (for what other can fhe do?)
Murt fly - or how can He purfue?

The Mufe (fo Cuftom hath decreed)
Now proves her Spirit by her fpeed,
Nor muft one limping line difgrace
The life and vigour of the Race.
She runs, and He runs, 'till at length,
Quite deftitute of Breath and frength,
To Heav'n (for there we all apply
For help, when there's no other nigh)
She offers up her Virgin Pray'r,
(Can Virgins pray unpitied there?)
And when the God thinks He has caught her, Slips thro' his hands, and runs to water, Becomes a Stream, in which the Poet, If he has any Wit, may fhew it.

He, upright Juticer, no doubt, All libitum puts in and out, Adjufts and fettles in a trice What Virtue is, and What is Vice, What is Perfection, what Defect, What we muf chure, and what reject ;
He takes upon him to explain

And gay before, was overcaft;
Horror beftrode a foreign blaft, And from the prifon of the North, To Freedom deadly, Storms burft forth.

A Car like thofe, in which, we're told, Our wild Forefathers warr'd of old, Loaded with Death, fix Horfes bear Thro' the blank region of the air. Too fierce for time or art to tame, They pour'd forth mingled fmoke and flame From their wide Nofrils; ev'ry Steed

Was of that ancient favage breed
Which fell Geryon nurs'd ; their food
The Ren of Man, their drink his blood.

On the firft Horfes, ill-match'd pair, This fat and Aleck, That lean and bare, Came ill-match'd Riders fide by fide, And Poverty was yoak'd with Pride: Union moft Arange it muft appear, Till other Unions make it clear.

Next, in the gall of bitternefs, With rage, which words can ill exprefs, With unforgiving rage, which fprings From a falfe zeal for holy things, Wearing fuch robes as Prophets wear, Falfe Prophets plac'd in Peter's chair,
On which, in Characters of fire, Shapes Antic, horrible and dire,
Inwoven flam'd, where, to the view,
In groups appear'd a rabble crew
Of Sainted Devils, where all round
Vile Reliques of vile men were found, Who, worfe than Devils, from the birth Perform'd the work of Hell on earth, Fugglers, Inquiftors, and Popes, Pointing at axes, wbecls, and ropes,

And Engines, fram'd on horrid plan, Which none but the deftroyer, Man, Could, to promote his felfifh views, Have heads to make, or hearts to ufe, Bearing, to confecrate her tricks, In her left-hand a Crucifix, Remembrance of Our dying Lord, And in her right a two-edg'd fword; Having her brows, in impious fport, Adorn'd with words of high import, On carth Peace, annongft men, Good Will, Love bearing, and forbearing fill, All wrote in the bearts-blood of thofe Who rather Death than Ealfood chofe;

Whilet at her fcet, in fincll pourtray'd, As farce worth notice, Cirrist was laid, Come Superstition, furce and fell, Anl Imp detefted, e'm in hell;

Her Eye inflam'd, her face all o'er Foully befmear'd with human gore, O'er heaps of mangled Saints She rode;
Faft at her heels Deati proudly ftrode, And grimly fmil'd, well-pleas'd to fee
Such havock of mortality.
Clofe by her fide, on mifchief bent,
And urging on each bad intent
To its full bearing, Savage, Wild,
The Mother fit of fuch a child,
Striving the empire to advance
Of Sin and Death, came Ignorance.

With looks, where dread command was plac'd,
And Sov'reign Pow'r by Pride difgrac'd,
Where, loudly witneffing a mind
Of favage more than human kind, Not chufing to be lov'd, but fear'd,
Mocking at right, Misrule appear'd,
With Eyeballs glaring fiery red
Enough to ftrike beholders dead,
Gnarhing his teeth, and in a flood
Pouring corruption forth and blood

From his chafd jaws; without remorfe
Whipping, and fpurring on his horfe,
Whofe fides, in their own blood embay'd,
E'en to the bone were open laid,
Came Tyranny; difdaining awe,
And trampling over Senfe and Law.
One thing and only one He knew,
One object only would purfue,
Tho' Lefs (fo low doth Paffion bring)
Than man, he would be more than King.

With ev'ry argument and art,
Which might corrupt the head and heart,
Soothing the frenzy of his mind,
Companion meet, was Flatt'ry join'd.
Winning his carriage, ev'ry look
Employ'd, whilft it conceal'd a hook;
When fimple moft, moft to be fear'd;
Moft crafty, when no craft appear'd ;
His tales, no man like him could tell;
His words, which melted as they fell,
Might e'en a Hypocrite deceive,
And make an infidel believe,

Wantonly cheating o'er and o'er
Thofe who had cheated been before :
Such Flatt'ry came in evil hour,
Pois'ning the royal ear of pow'r, And, grown by Profitution great, Would be firft Minifter of State.

Within the Chariot, all alone,
High feated on a kind of throne,
With pebbles grac'd, a Figure came,
Whom Juftice would, but dare not, name.
Hard times when Juftice, without fear,
Dare not bring forth to public ear
The names of thofe, who dare offend
'Gainft Juftice, and pervert her end;
But, if the Mufe afford me grace, Defcription fhall fupply the place.

In foreign garments he was clad, Sage Ermine o'er the gloffy Plaid
Caft rev'rend honour, on his heart,
Wrought by the curious hand of Art,
In filver wrought, and brighter far
Than heav'nly or than earthly Star,

Shone a Wbite Rofe, the Emblem dear
Of him He ever mult revere,
Of that dread Lord, who, with his hoft
Of faithful native rebels loft,
Like thofe black Spirits doom'd to hell,
At once from pow'r and virtue fell;
Around his clouded brows was plac'd
A Bonnet, moft fuperbly grac'd
With mighty Thifles, nor forgot
The facred motto, Touch me not.

In the right-hand a fword He bore Harder than Adamant, and more Fatal than winds, which from the mouth
Of the rough North invade the South;
The reeking blade to view prefents
The blood of helplefs Innocents,
And on the hilt, as meck become
As Lambs before the Shearers dumb, With downcaft eye, and folemn how Of decp unutterable woe, Mourning the time when Freedon reign'd, Faft to a rock was Junice chain'd.

In his left-hand, in wax impreft,
With bells and gewgaws idly dreft,
An Image, caft in baby mould,
He held, and feem'd o'erjoy'd to hold.
On this he fix'd his eyes, to this
Bowing he gave the loyal kifs, And, for Rebellion fully ripe,
Seem'd to defire the Antitype,
What if to that Pretender's foes
His greatnefs, nay, his life he owes,
Shall common obligations bind,
And fhake his conftancy of mind ?
Scorning fuch weak and petty chains,
Faithful to James he fill remains, Tho' he the friend of George appear:
Diffimulation's Virtue bere.

Jealous and Mcan, he with a frown: Would awe, and keep all merit down, Nor would to Truth and Juftice bend, Unlefs out-bullied by his friend;
Brave with the Coward, with the brave He is himfelf a Coward flave;

Aw'd by his fears, he has no heart
'To take a great and open part;
Mines in a fubtle train he fprings,
And, fecret, faps the ears of Kings;
But not e'en there continues firm
'Gainft the refiftance of a worm;
Born in a Country, where the will Of One is Law to all, he ftill
Retain'd th' infection, with full aim
To fpread it wherefoe'er he came;
Freedon he hated, Law defied, The Proftitute of Pow'r and Pride;
Law he with eafe explains away,
And leads bewilder'd Senfe aftray;
Much to the credit of his brain
Puzzles the caufe he can't maintain,
Proceeds on moft familiar grounds,
And, where he can't convince, confounds;
Talcnts of rareft ftamp and fize,
'To Nature falfe, he mifapplies,
And turns to poifon what was fent
Eor purpofes of nourifhment.

Palenefs, not fuch as on his wings
The Meffenger of Sicknefs brings,
But fuch as takes its coward rife
From confcious bafenefs, confcious vice,
O'erfpread his cheeks; Diddain and Pride,
To upftart Fortunes ever tied,
Scowl'd on his brow; within his eye,
Infidious, lurking like a fpy
To Caution principled by Fear,
Not daring open to appear,
Lodg'd covert Mifcbief; Paffion hung
On his lip quiv'ring; on his tongue
Froud dwelt at large; within his breaft
All that makes Villain found a neft, All that, on hell's completeft plan, E're join'd to damn the heart of man.

Soon as the Car reach'd land, He rofe, And with a look which might have froze The heart's beft blood, which was enough Had hearts been made of fterner ftuff

Fix'd without motion to the ground, Fcar waiting on furprize, All food,
And ITorror chilled their curdled blood.
No more they thought of Pomp, no more
(For they had feen his face before)
Of Law they thought; the caufe forgot,
Whether it was or Ghof, or Plot, Which drew them there, They All ftood more Like Statues than they were before.

What could be done? Could Art, could Force,
Or Both direct a proper courfe
To make this favage Monfter tame,
Or fend him back the way he came?
What neither Art, nor Force, nor Both
Could do, a Lord of foreign growth, A Lord to that bafe wretch allied In Country, not in Vice and Pride, Effected; from the felf-fame land,
(Bad news for our blafpheming band
Of Scribblers, but deferving note) The Poifon came, and Antidote.

Abalh'd the Monfter hung his head,
And, like an empty Vifion, fled;
His Train, like Virgin Snows which run,
Kifs'd by the burning bawdy Sun,
To lovefick ftreams, diffolv'd in Air;
Joy, who from abfence feem'd more fair,
Came fmiling, freed from flavifh awe;
Loyalty, Liberty, and Law,
Impatient of the galling chain,
And Yoke of pow'r, refum'd their reign;
And, burning with the glorious flame
Of Public Virtue, Mansfield came.
